The Saloni 2010 were a huge success: 329,563 accredited visitors from every part of the globe.

The Saloni again demonstrated their pole position globally, and with the 2010 edition they proved to be a huge media phenomenon and an unfailing barometer of habits.

The enormous success of the 49th edition was due, in particular, to the efforts and investments of the exhibiting companies which, despite the credit crunch, showcased extremely prestigious and innovative products and stands. These companies recognised the Saloni as being the industrial system's major vehicle for communication.

The Saloni 2010 showcased over 10,000 new products from more than 2,500 exhibitors that ranged over 209,000 square metres of exhibition space.
